

Susan Anthony-Klein is a rehearsal and performance accompanist known throughout the state for her accompanist abilities. Since 1989, she has been the Music/Choir Director at Salem Covenant Church in Washington, CT. She was on the faculty at Western CT State University where she taught piano, accompanied Opera Ensemble, coached and performed voice and instrumental students.

Susan has accompanied many Connecticut choral groups including: Newtown Choral Society, Naugatuck Community Chorus, Ridgefield chorale, Danbury Chorus, Connecticut Choral Society and the Heritage Singers. She accompanied The St. Cecelia Chorus, in New York, under the direction of David Randolph which included seven performances at Carnegie Hall. She has toured internationally with The DeCormier Singers and The Norman Luboff Chorus. She has also accompanied intensive Choral Weekends in Saugerties and Mohonk Mountain, NY.

She has performed as part of the Leroy Anderson Music series in his home in Woodbury, CT. Susan also works with vocal and instrumental soloists in the New York and Connect area in preparation and performance of recitals.

Susan has her Bachelor of Music Performance, Clarinet, from the University of Connecticut and her Masters of Music Performance degree from Ithaca College, Ithaca NY.